tocks demarcated themselves from her slightly heavy thighs. I would have put my hands between her thighs and gently perted them to catch my first glimpse of her pudenda . . .

But not this time. Even my first view of Katharina's bottom hardly affected me and I raised the slipper almost perfunctorily and then making the effort against my will, brought it down on her buttocks.

She lay perfectly still and silent as she received that first taste of the slipper, and I got the impression that she had hardly felt it. Did she want me to hit her harder? Surely she wasn't wanting me to hurt her?

I lifted the slipper a little higher and tried to put a bit more effort into bringing it down. I actually aimed it at one side where her bottom was completely uncovered, hoping that I would strike her hard enough to get some sort of reaction from her. But once again I was to be disappointed.
